MANAGER

LOU BOUDREAU: The third year of major league baseball for Kansas City is also the third year for Lou Boudreau as manager of the Athletics. It should be an interesting season.

In 1955, the Athletics, freshly transplanted in Kansas City after years of play in Philadelphia, surprised the American League with a sixth place finish. Fans, players, and management alike were delighted with the play of the new A's.

But in 1956 the team slipped and the Athletics went back to eighth. Injuries and other circumstances produced a low win total for the season. However, fan interest and support stayed steady and the Athletics went over the million attendance mark for the second year.

Boudreau certainly provides the model for his men to copy. Honors and success have been his ever since his start in the American League back in 1939 with Cleveland. A manager at twenty-four, a playing manager at that, and these additional laurels are on his baseball record:

American League all-star team in 1940, 1941, 1942, 1947 and 1948. He hit .333 and fielded perfectly, not an error, in the four games in which he participated.

He was named the Most Valuable Player in the American League in 1948.

Named the Major League Player of the Year by the Sporting News in 1948.

He was picked by the Sporting News as the shortstop on the All-Star Major League Teams, 1947-1948.

He tied the record for the highest fielding average by shortstops in world series play with 1.000.

In addition, he led American League shortstops in double plays in 1940, 1943, 1944, 1947 and 1948.

Boudreau, one of the most fluent and personable men in baseball, still resides in the town of his birth, Harvey, Illinois. His wife, Della, and their three children are his chief pride, and he and Mrs. Boudreau find time to partake in bowling, his only physical activity when baseball is not being played. This past winter he served as the volunteer chairman of a fund raising effort to secure over a million dollars for a hospital expansion program in Harvey.

He starts the new season with optimism predicated on improved pitching, better defense, and improved personnel. These facts when allied with hard work represent the ingredients that are expected to move the Athletics up the ladder in the American League race.

THE COACHES

HARRY CRAFT: Veteran coach starts his third season on the Athletics with Lou Boudreau. Craft played his major league baseball with Cincinnati, then followed his active days with managerial responsibilities in the Yankee organization. He started with Independence, then to Joplin, Beaumont for two seasons, and was with the Blues of Kansas City for two years.

SPURGEON CHANDLER: A new member of the coaching staff after a brilliant career as a pitcher with the Yankees. "Spud" has coached, managed, served as scout, and last season worked with the pitchers in the Athletics' minor league system. His elevation to the major league staff is expected to provide a real boost for the Athletics' pitchers who will be under his supervision.

BOB SWIFT: Swift, also new to the A's staff this season, spent fourteen years in the American League as a catcher. Three with St. Louis, one with the old Philadelphia Athletics, and the balance of the time with the Detroit Tigers. Bob has coached and last season he manager Aubuquerque of the Western League.
